

How to master Social Media
Edinburgh University
24th October 2011

A photograph of David Cameron, the former Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, looking directly at the camera with a serious expression. He is wearing a dark blue suit jacket over a white shirt. A small, fluffy orange and white kitten is perched on his shoulder, looking towards the camera. The background is a bright, out-of-focus indoor setting with large windows.

Vote Conservative.
Or I'll kill this kitten.

City in space

Anna Simpson, January 11th, Forum Blog

"Artist plans city in air, without traffic jams, noise or discomfort." So runs a story in the New York Herald. The proposed design leaves the ground free for farmed land, parks, canals, roads, trains and highways, by creating a whole new plane for houses and offices on bridge-like platforms. "The traffic ... Barack Obama

Attend a State of the Union Watch Party Tomorrow

my.barackobama.com

The State of the Union is an important speech for the nation and for this movement. That's why supporters across the country will gather at watch parties nationwide to see the speech and to craft the strategy we'll use to support the agenda President Obama will lay out.

Barack Obama Let us forge a national commitment to support our extraordinary military families, not just now, during war, but at every stage of their lives.

Presidential Initiative Supports Military Families

www.whitehouse.gov

President Barack Obama, First Lady Michelle Obama, and Dr. Jill Biden put forward today nearly 50 commitments by federal agencies to establish a coordinated and comprehensive approach to supporting military families.

LinkedIn

The Ultimate Tool For

LinkedIn is a professional network and almost every company exists on this platform. Use LinkedIn to let others know that you are available. The fact that it is a platform of choice for most recruiters and employers, your chances of finding a job through linkedin is higher as compared to Facebook, Twitter, etc.

LinkedIn has thousands of groups created by individuals and companies. If you are looking for marketing jobs, join a marketing group and participate. Share valuable information, ask questions and participate within the community. If you are able to impress your group members, next time there is a job opening that they know of you will be the one to get recommended. Besides, companies participate and keep an eye out on these groups. Find a group that relates to your field and participate, communicate, provide value and you will see opportunities coming your way.

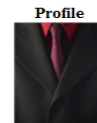

Be a part of the community. Having a great profile and impressive background alone won't help land a job of your dreams. Participate and be a valuable member of the community. Engage in different groups. Recommend others and get recommended.

Follow the social media rule when looking for jobs on LinkedIn. Be social.

Features & Notes

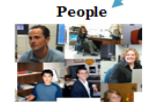

Profile

Create a profile that can create a good impression. LinkedIn isn't Facebook, so create a profile that is geared towards professionals. Include qualifications, skills, education and other factors that would help you land a job in your field. Think of LinkedIn profile as an online resume.

Applications

When choosing applications to use on your LinkedIn profile one must be very careful. If you are going to showcase your blog on your profile make sure it is not too personal. Seeing drunk pictures from last night appearing on your LinkedIn profile may compel a potential employer to cross you off the list as a potential candidate.

People

Search LinkedIn network to find people that are related to your field. Get an idea of where they work and how they communicate. Watch and learn, connect.

Jobs

Use LinkedIn's job search tool to look for opportunities. Some group members continually offer jobs through their group pages as well so make sure to utilize the job feature on the group pages you belong to.

Companies

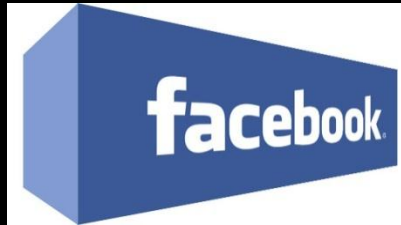

Whether it's a small business or Fortune 500 companies that you are looking to work for, chances are you will find them on LinkedIn. Search for companies that suits your field and keep an eye out for opportunities. Get an insider view by keeping tabs on these company profiles.

Recommendations

LinkedIn's recommendation feature is a powerful tool. Ask your current employer/manager and anyone else who has worked with you to endorse you. If you have been a good employee, you will get positive recommendations which can help other employers know you are trustworthy and will be an asset to their company.

A recent survey ranked Facebook as the most beneficial social network for small businesses followed by LinkedIn & Twitter

1100 small business owners surveyed said the biggest benefits of social networking were the abilities to generate leads, keep up with their industry and monitor online conversations about their business

About me

I'm an avid crafter and technologist living in Brooklyn, NY with my husband James, co-founder of the Graffiti Research Lab and Est Lab. For the last several years we have documented our robotic and tech collaborations on robotclothes.com. I have recently turned from rapid prototyping with laser cutters and 3D printers to slow motion prototyping with needles and yarn. My favorite projects are objects taken out of context and remade as incongruous knitted items like the police tape I made on the cover of CRAFT: 04. One more question that has kept me up at night...I wonder where the hemp cars are now? I looked on ebay but I didn't find one, not a single one. If I had one where would I get the hemp oil to run it? My friend Fielding said that he used to get hemp oil from his brother's girlfriend until he had to move out of her step mothers basement.

I wonder if hemp would be considered a carbon offset? Does Al Gore know about the hemp cars?

POSTED BY: JONNY CHEPE | 8 JUL 2009 03:06:39

Too much profit...i think everyone should be poor and then no one would buy cars and there wouldn't any polution.

I wonder if Henry painted his hemp cars green or if he just left them natural? I saw a movie where two guys had a hemp truck they drove back from Mexico. It caught on fire. I wonder if that was a good thing.

Green Youtube founder is Limehouse and Poplar candidate for the Green Party

Wednesday, 24 March 2010

"For too long I've watched Tower Hamlets council waste money on pointless schemes" - Chris Smith

The Green Party has selected an eco-film maker to stand in the parliamentary constituency of Limehouse and Poplar in this year's General Election. Chris Smith, is also standing as a local election candidate in Bow West where he hopes to become one of Tower Hamlets' first Green councillors.

Smith, who founded Ecotube, the Green Youtube, is pledging to revive the local community by: increasing social housing, fighting education cuts, encouraging adult learning, introducing free home insulation, lower fuel bills, supporting new businesses, reducing empty premises, increasing cycle lanes, reducing pollution and getting more local people in Olympic jobs.

Determined to root out Council waste and incompetence, Smith is calling for immediate cuts in the salaries of the most highly paid executives and to ensure they once again become public servants. He says:

"The money saved will go towards enabling us to provide free insulation, increase social housing and regenerate our estates leading to lower levels of disorderly behavior. There are currently 23,000 people families on the borough waiting list and 70% of residents in Tower Hamlets live in council estate blocks."

Chris Smith adds:

"For too long I have watched as Tower Hamlets council waste money through incompetence and wasteful schemes. The recent Hijab gate proposal for Brick Lane is a classic example, estimated to cost £1.8m whilst earlier in the year the council was going to cut the ESOL budget by £1.2 million. I'm looking forward to adding a voice of reason and an alternative to the main parties running in the borough. The Green Party is now the only credible option for those seeking a fairer, more equal society."

Billing himself as an anti Politician Chris added "I feel strongly that we need to return to principles not personalities in politics and move away from career politicians out for everything they can get. The Green Party is the natural home for demonstrating new moral and ethical guidelines in policy making"

social mention is a real time search platform

How Sociable provides a score of a Brand's visibility. Also allows monthly tracking updates to be sent by email.
